

I strongly oppose deregulation of Media ownership. This country was made strong by the open discussion and debate of all points of view. Media monopoly has already limited the kinds of information the media presents and how it is presented, eg. CNN's two versions of the war on Iraq. I want to be able to believe what I hear and read from the American media, and not have to depend on foreign sources to find out what really is happening. I realize the move toward deregulation is motivated by political and economic agendas, not by what is best for the American people. Please do not assume you know what is best for me. I rely on the wisdom of our forefathers who recognized the importance of free speech and freedom of the press.
